Just make sure that when you're customizing your product that you use common sense when editing it.

The whole idea behind NakedPLR.com is for you to get products in their bare-naked form so that you can then finalize them, add your own unique ideas and content to the product and polish them up as a product unique to yourself and your business.

Doing this makes it not only a fun and fast process when creating products to sell but also a truly rewarding experience on the financial end when you launch it.

Not only are you getting a book on a certain subject but you are also getting another book worth of articles on the same topic! You should use these to mix into the content of your book and make the book better.

Just why did we give you the articles?

Because no two people are going to blend the articles into the book same way! That means that no matter what, every NakedPLR.com member is going to have a different book any way that you look at it.

Not to mention the incredible power you have in using the articles to submit to article directories, forums as well as publishing them on your own blog for search engine traffic.

Yet another idea for the articles would be to use them to create an eCourse or a report that you can give away to visitors to your site in exchange for their contact information so that you can follow up with them.

NakedPLR.com gives you the unique ability to take a product that's been nearly completed for you and make it 100% original and unique to only you. There is no other site like this on the planet.
